Fall’s Finest: State Fair is Deep-Hearted Fun

By Leilani Barrera

“The stars at night are big and bright, deep in the heart of Texas.”—Gene Autry

While our state pride shines bright all year long, during the State Fair of Texas it couldn’t be more colorful! From early September to October, the prairie sky is ablaze with tradition, celebration, and all things Texas! For any homegrown Texan, the State Fair is by far a bucket list destination. Starting in 1886, the State Fair has held its place deep in the heart of Texas, at the historic Fair Park in Dallas. Beginning on the last Friday in September, it typically runs for 25 days.

There is so much to see and do at the Texas State Fair! This fair not only brings people from every corner of the state together, but it also serves as an exciting opportunity to engage with other fairgoers face-to-face. From cute barnyard animals to late-night music concerts, there is something for every member of the family.

Here are a few things to be sure to check out on your visit to the Fair this year:

In Texas, big is the way of life, and there’s only one way to start a visit to the State Fair: by meeting Big Tex. He’s the myth, the legend, and the official greeter of the fair—the world’s tallest cowboy. Since 1952, this 95-gallon hat-wearing icon has stood big and tall. At a towering 38 feet tall, Big Tex wears size-96 Lucchese boots, a custom Western shirt crafted by Fort Worth’s Williamson-Dickie Mfg. Co. and sports a friendly smile full of pride and Southern charm. He has welcomed millions of guests to Fair Park’s annual event. Make sure to

WEEKLY WORSHIP EXPERIENCE

Choir members have begun rehearsals for the 2025 Christmas Worship Experience, “Light of the World.” There is still time for volunteer singers to join the fun each Wednesday evening!

“Light of the World” Christmas Worship Experience Shines Bright

By Debbie McKellar

There’s a certain sound that fills the Music Rehearsal Hall every fall—part laughter, part warm-up scales, and part joyful anticipation. That sound marks the beginning of something special at White’s Chapel: rehearsals for the annual Christmas Worship Experience.

“Ho! Ho! Ho!” reads the first call for musicians. And with that, choir members—both longtime regulars and newcomers affectionately known as Holly Berries—begin gathering on Sunday evenings at 5 p.m., sheet music (or iPads) in hand, ready to raise their voices in song.

Managing Your Emotions with Your Mindset WC Women’s Event with Guest Speaker Michelle Nietert

Tuesday, Nov. 4 | 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. | Evans Hall

By Debbie McKellar

This fall, WC Women invites you to step away from the busyness of life for an evening designed to nourish both body and soul. On Tuesday, Nov. 4, friends will gather in Evans Hall for a delicious dinner, heartfelt worship, and an inspiring message from guest speaker Michelle Nietert, LPC-S, a nationally recognized counselor, author, and speaker known for her blend of honesty, humor, and Biblical wisdom. “Michelle Nietert is someone who connects with women of all ages,” said Rev. Joy Roberson, White’s Chapel’s Missions and Women’s Ministry Director. “She meets women where they are and through her speaking, encourages them to grow in their faith.” Nietert’s topic, “Managing Your Emotions with Your Mindset,” gets right to the heart of what many women quietly struggle with—how to handle emotions in healthy, Christ-honoring ways. “We all wrestle with feelings like anxiety, anger, sadness, or stress,” Nietert says. “The goal isn’t to avoid emotion but to understand it, take every thought captive, and let God shape how we respond.” Through relatable stories, practical tools, and Biblical insight, she helps audiences find calm and clarity in the middle of life’s chaos.

Remembering the Saints Wednesday following All Saints Day in the Sanctuary

Each November, the Church pauses to remember. It’s a sacred rhythm that arrives with the turning of the season—when autumn leaves begin to fall and the light softens into gold. It’s a season of remembrance; a time to honor those who have gone before us in faith and to celebrate the eternal bond that still connects us all.

All Saints’ Day is not only about grief—it is also about gratitude.

All Saints’ Day has been observed by Christians for more than twelve centuries. In the earliest days of the Church, believers gathered to remember the martyrs—those who gave their lives rather than deny their faith. Over time, the observance grew to include all faithful believers—every mother, father, friend, teacher, and servant of the Church whose life reflected the love and grace of Christ. By the ninth century, Pope Gregory IV established November 1 as the official feast of All Saints. The day became a cherished part of the Christian calendar, reminding believers that the Church

The Surgeon in the Seminary

By Rev. Sam Robbins

During my time in seminary at SMU, I took The History of Christianity with Dr. Ted Campbell. Like most first classes, the opening session was the good old-fashioned “go around and introduce yourself” routine. We were supposed to say a bit about who we were, where we were serving, and what we hoped to get out of the program. Some people were pastors, some were nonprofit leaders, some were fresh out of college like me—bright-eyed, broke, and surviving on a diet of caffeine and off-brand pretzels. Then there was Hal.

ALL SAINTS SERVICE

extends far beyond time and space—linking the living and the departed in a shared faith and hope. Many Protestant congregations—including Methodists—later embraced the tradition as a day of gratitude and reflection, a time to give thanks for what Scripture calls the “great cloud of witnesses” who have shaped our journeys and strengthened our faith.

At White’s Chapel, this beloved tradition continues with a special All Saints Service on the Wednesday following All Saints’ Day. The service will be a bit different this year. We will celebrate the Saints of the Church a bit more specifically,—these faithful who have entered eternal rest over the past year—as well as those whose lives continue to inspire our own walk of faith. It is a time to remember, to give thanks, and to be reminded that death is not the end of the story.

The service will be filled with quiet beauty. Candles, arranged in the shape of a cross, will glow throughout the sanctuary, representing the saints who now rest in God’s eternal light. As the individual names of those we have lost in the past year are read aloud, a bell will sound for each—symbolizing their continuing light and presence in the communion of saints. The collective glow of the candles will shine as one—representing the unity of all believers, past and present, whose faith continues to illuminate the world.

The pastors of White’s Chapel will join to lead this meaningful time of worship and thanksgiving, with Dr. John McKellar offering the homily. Together, they will guide the congregation through moments of remembrance, prayer, and gratitude—lifting hearts toward the eternal promise of hope.

In the quietness of shared remembrance, we give thanks not only for the lives of those who have gone before us, but for the enduring love of God that continues to hold us all. All Saints’ Day is not only about grief—it is also about gratitude. It reminds us that we are part of something much larger than ourselves: a faith community that stretches from generation to generation, bound together by grace.

We invite you to join us for this special evening of worship and thanksgiving.

Additionally, we thank you for joining us as we honor the saints—those who have gone before us, and those who still walk beside us in faith.

stop by and snap a photo with this gentle giant and the whole family!

Another main attraction of the Fair is the Drive Like a Texan Starlight Parade. Happening nightly at 7:15 p.m., this dazzling show features an array of fantastic floats designed by Kern Studios of New Orleans as well as life-size puppets, animated characters in bedazzled costumes, and more.

Rolling out for the very first time last December, the State Fair presents Drive like a Texan, TxDOT’s newest safety initiative. In efforts to celebrate Texas’ characteristic charm and kindness on the road and to unite all drivers under the shared goal of road safety, the initiative was “designed to inspire drivers statewide to take southern hospitality a step further and embrace the best of Texas values.” Inside the GO TEXAN pavilion, a retro-themed safety service station takes visitors on a blast from the past with spin-to-win gas pump games, an interactive payphone sharing recorded safety messages, and plenty of photo opportunities. Don’t miss your chance to drive by!

Saddle up to witness some of the best rodeo in all of Texas! The Fair Park Coliseum hosts various rodeos throughout the duration of the fair, including a Mexican-style rodeo, youth rodeo, Cowboys of Color, and the United Professional Rodeo Association’s Finals. Showtimes and rodeo lineups can be found online.

There’s something for everyone here at the Fair. Whether the kids enjoy prehistoric life-sized dinosaurs, side-splitting puppet shows, or interactive farmyard exhibits, every member of the family will be sure to be entertained. Take a ride on the Texas Skyway, the Texas Star Ferris wheel, or catch a live show of your favorite bands performing on the Main Stage. For all car fanatics, you’ll find over 400 of the latest models at the annual Texas Auto Show. If you’re a sports fan, attend a college football game at the historic Cotton Bowl Stadium! For the bite-sized fairgoers, the Kidway area of the Midway is a family-friendly environment with more inclusive rides and games.

Speaking of bite-sized, what would the Fair be without its unique culinary creativity and deep-fried delicacies? With new vendors, seating areas, and food stands this year, fairgoers have the chance to taste all the mouth-watering concessions that this year’s vendors have to offer. Whether it be Brisket and Brew Stuffed Pretzels, Deep Fried Deli Tacos, Hot

Honeycomb Lemonade Shake Up, or Cheesecake-on-a-stick, roll up your sleeves and get ready for another unforgettable year of must-try, tantalizing treats!

To save a few dollars, popular discount days are offered for the average fairgoer, including bi-weekly Dr. Pepper Value Days, reduced prices on select food vendors on Thrifty Thursdays, and kid pricing for all tickets every day after 5 p.m.

To complete your visit, be sure to catch the Illumination Sensation show! Every night at 8 p.m. dazzling lights illuminate the pool for a fun and festive performance that will leave you utterly mesmerized.

Ride a swan boat, tour the museums, or do a little shopping in the 18 souvenir centers scattered around the park. There is so much to see and do. There is nothing more Texan than having a grand old time. Grab the grandkids, your parents, friends, and neighbors, and head to Dallas for a fun-filled time this Fall!

Fall Kick-Off

Classic Adult Fellowship hosted a wonderful kick-off luncheon with guest speaker, Holly Stevens. In addition to being an art history professor for the University of Michigan, Holly loves behind the scenes history stories and has won numerous awards for bringing the stories to life. For our luncheon, Holly shared the most interesting stories about Michaelangelo and the Sistine Chapel! She shared lots of knowledge but was so captivating with how she told it. No one wanted it to be over and we can’t wait to have her out again in the spring! Joey and the kitchen staff outdid themselves with the best smothered steak we’ve had in a while! Thank you to all who serve, volunteer, welcome new folks, and make our luncheons truly a fantastic monthly event.

His books were stacked in front of him like surgical instruments. He was probably mid-50s, dressed like he’d just walked out of a Brooks Brothers catalog, and he sat in the back with his notepad, eagerly awaiting Dr. Campbell’s lecture. When it was his turn, he said, “Hi, I’m Hal. I’m a surgeon in Dallas.”

Now, that was technically true. But as it turns out, Hal wasn’t just a surgeon- he was one of the top hip surgeons in the country. He’d had a decorated career, was known in medical circles across the nation, and had even operated on some major celebrities (though he wouldn’t ever tell us who).

Well I remember learning all of this about Hal and thinking: What in the world is this guy doing here? Why would a world-class surgeon spend his Tuesday and Thursday nights listening to lectures on the Council of Nicaea and writing reflection papers on the Desert Fathers? He didn’t need the degree. He didn’t need the credit hours. And I didn’t get the sense that he intended to change careers. It didn’t make sense to me.

And apparently, I wasn’t the only one wondering.

One day, a friend of mine was getting coffee between classes and decided to

Light

“We always say it’s my job to make everyone look good,” laughs Music and Worship Co-Director Shaunna Fuller, “but truly, it’s our singers and musicians who make this season so extraordinary.”

The choir rehearses nine Sundays from early October through the end of November, preparing nearly every piece of music for the CWE. “The choir is singing on every song this year except one!” Fuller says proudly. Music packets are handed out the first night, but many participants opt for the digital version on iPad—“a much lighter way to hold your music,” she adds with a grin.

Those involved in the White’s Chapel Orchestra (WCO) meet Nov. 16 for rehearsal (complete with a light lunch), followed by combined rehearsals for choir and orchestra on Dec. 7, 10, and 13—all leading up to the Christmas Worship Experience performances Dec. 13 at 5:30 p.m. and Dec. 14 at 9 and 11 a.m.

This year’s theme, “Light of the World,” ties together familiar hymns and fresh new arrangements. Expect to hear inspired renditions of “O Come, O Come Emmanuel” and “Silent Night,” along with newer compositions such as such as “Carol Celebration” and “The Promise.”

Adding even more sparkle, Grammy-winning guitarist Mark Lettieri returns to perform his stunning solo “Miraculum.” Featured guest artist Amber Bullock joins a lineup of beloved White’s Chapel vocalists—Doug Terry, Sarah and Daniel Bryson, Jacob Garcia, Jacob Serrano, Grace Zeller, Bruce Wermuth, Cyndi Sledge, and Ken Nelson. Cantare will sing a pre-concert as well as perform during the CWE, and—as tradition requires—there will be graceful high school dancers and those “darling baby angels” that melt every heart.

“Holly Berries”—the nickname for singers who typically enjoy participating specifically during the Christmas or Easter seasons—are an essential part of the celebration. “We so appreciate these singers,” Fuller says. “After they experience the joy of making music, many decide to stay on with the choir year-round!”

The reason is simple: “So much of life is depleting—bills, appointments, endless ‘have-to’s,” Fuller reflects. “But making music is a joy-replenisher. Body, mind, and spirit are all engaged. One of our choir members says, ‘I come dragging into rehearsal and always leave with a spring in my step!’”

Unlike many choirs, White’s Chapel’s Chancel Choir doesn’t hold auditions. “This is a church choir,” she emphasizes. “All are welcome—from drones to divas! We rely on the Holy Spirit to help tune our voices and blend our sound. ‘Not by might, not by power, but by my Spirit,’ says the Lord.”

This year’s CWE features an original narration written by Dr. John McKellar, tracing the thread of Jesus from Genesis to Revelation—“truly the Greatest Story Ever Told,” Fuller says. Actor Ryan Brown, fresh off his starring role as Henry Higgins in “My Fair Lady,” will bring the words to life as narrator.

So, whether you’re a seasoned singer, an orchestra musician, or simply a fan of beautiful worship and Christmas wonder, this year’s Light of the World promises to illuminate hearts and lift spirits. And it is still early enough for additional volunteers to join the magic.

As Fuller puts it: “Leave your screens and crazies behind. Come connect with our choral community—and let the music refill your joy.”
